Special cars will be attached to train No. 153 leaving Charleroi at 12:46, arriving at Fourth Avenue Pittsburg at 2:02, and will be for exclusive use of Sir Knights. Past Commander George W. The principle officers of McKean Commandery are: Commander, William C. McAllister; Generalissimo, Charles S. McKean; Captain General Lawrence B. Frye; Past Commander George W. PRISONER LEAVES MONESSEN GANG

Takes French Leave and Sticks to it With German Tenacity

PRISONER FROM BROWNSVILLE

Thursday at the noon hour, Street Foreman A. Frazier of Monessen, lost the first man from his convict gang that he has lost during his entire administration and naturally Mr. Frazier is doing everything possible to locate the escaped captive and place him back at his post of duty until he has paid the penalty for the misdemeanor with which he is charged.

William Simpson, aged 62 years of Brownsville, Pa., was sentenced by Burgess Dunlap to three days in the street and he had worked less than one day when he made his escape. The charge against Simpson was drunkenness and he had been excused and told to leave town but finding it hard punishment to be forced away from Monessen, he could not get away.

Early in the evening of the same day, Simpson was picked up by an officer and lodged in jail over night. When he faced the burgess the next morning he was given three days to work on the street and was placed in Frazier's gang. He moved along quite easily until the noon hour, not bearing too hard on the broom handle and not raising an over amount of dust, when be asked leave of his watchers to step away just a few feet. At this juncture he communed with himself and he said as Hamlet of old "Is it better to take up arms against a sea of troubles or bear the ills we have?" and after solioquizing for a brief time he said "I'll fly," and he did, and so far as any person knows he is still flying.

JURY DISAGREES IN HAZELKIRK DAMAGE SUIT BEING WAGED

After 21 hours' deliberation, the jury in the suit of the Pittsburg & Westmoreland Co., by its receivers, against the Pennsylvania Railfroad Co., failed to agree. They went out about noon Wednesday and were out until Friday. After the court had consulted with counsel concerned, the jury was brought in. The members stated they were so divided that they could not get together. It is understood they stood seven to five. The case had been on trial last week and about $25,000 was involved, though the defense contested any such amout being awarded the plaintiff. It was a claim for damages for the loss of a steel tipple at the Hazelkirk No. 3 mine. It was wrecked when cars, being sent in on a switch were shoved over the end of the switch and into the tipple. The question of negligence figured largely in the action. Unless a settlement is reached it will be up for trial again at the coming term.

MONONGAHELA WOMAN IS COMMITTED TO ASYLUM

After Several Unsuccessful Attempts At Suicide Demented Woman is Removed to Home for Insane.

Julia Onesky, aged 31 years, residing near the Valley Supply store in First ward, Monongahela was taken to the county home in an auto by Constable Joseph Fitzimmons Friday morning. A commission will likely be appointed and the woman committed to one of the state insane asylums.

Ever since the birth of a baby about four months ago the woman has been feeble minded and has been continually under surveillance by some member of the family. She has attempted to injure the baby several times but was always detected before she put her insane plans into commission. Of late she has grown worse and has attempted self destruction on several occasions. Yesterday she jumped out of a window and was making her way to the river probably to drown herself when she was caught by her husband. Since that time the woman has raved almost continually and it was deemed best to commit her to some institution. Beside the baby which was taken to the county home, her husband and a little boy five years old composed the family.

MRS WOODWARD ENTERTAINS "DIE LORELEI" CLUB

Friday afternoon Mrs. Davies Woodward entertained the "Die Lorelei" Club at her home in Lockview. Thirteen members of the club were present. After a goodly portion of the afternoon had been spent in the making of fancy work the club enjoyed a two-course lunch served by the hostess.

CIVIL WAR VETERAN PASSES AWAY AS THE RESULT OF BREAKDOWN

William J. Johnston, aged 73 years, died Friday afternoon at his home in Peters township, as the result of a general breakdown, complicated by heart trouble. Mr. Johnston was one of the best known men of that township and his death came as a great shock to his many friends.

He was born in South Fayette township, Allegheny county, March 16, 1842, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Johnson. In 1862 he enlisted in Company D, 149th Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry and served throughout the Civil war, taking part in a great number of battles. As a result of his efficient service as a soldier he was made corporal. For a number of years he was ruling elder in the Greenside Avenue U. P. church at Canonsburg. Besides his wife he is survived by five children: Miss Eva L. Johnston, John Elmer Johnston, Dr. Wm. M. Johnston, Mrs. George W. Brugger and Warren Blaine Johnston. A brother, James Johnston of near Morganza and a sister, Mrs. W. T. Morgan of Canonsburg, also survive. The funeral services were held Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the late home in charge of Rev. James H. Grier. Interment will be in the Oak Springs cemetery.

SPECIAL ATTRACTIONS FOR THE COYLE NEXT WEEK

Porter and Hugh Ford by the Famous Players Film Co. Mr. Coyle announces there will be two shows in the afternoon, first performance starts promptly at one o'clock. Another big feature for the Coyle is "The Avenging Conscience." which has been running at the Miles Theatre, Pittsburg.

STRUCK BY A SWING AT PICNIC AT ELDORA

George Jonas, son of Mr. and Mrs. August Jonas of Monongahela was painfully though not seriously injured Friday when he was struck on the side of the head with a swing.

George was in attendance at the Parochial school picnic held at Eldora. Shortly after reaching the park, he with a number of other children made a dash for the swings, and while standing a waiting his turn, he stood too close to a swing which was in motion with the result that he was struck on the side of the head and a deep gash inflicted.

The unfortunate lad was given first aid after which he was taken to Monongahela where he was given medical attention and it was found necessary to put four or five stitches in the wound.

WOMAN IS GIVEN BEATING IN WAR

Minature Race War Results At Manown Following War Talk

HUNGARIANS-RUSSIANS FIGHT

A race war occurred at Manown near Monongahela and when the smoke of the battle had cleared away, a Hungarian man and woman were put to rout and the woman bore bruises all over her body as a result of the Russian assault.

From what can be learned, a Hungarian named Bichi and three Russians, got into an argument over the outcome of the European war and at first a war of words ensued, followed by a report to "arms." Bichi fought valiantly, but was soon overpowered by the superior number of the Czar's followers. Reinforcements arrived to aid Bichi in the form of his wife and she, too, was badly beaten by the Slavs. The woman was knocked down and kicked and according to a local physician to whom she came for treatment, she had bruises all over her body.

The woman appeared before Justice of the Peace Kelly and made an information. The victorious Russians were arrested by Constable James Rue. At a hearing the men paid the woman $20 for the beating she received, paid the costs and the case was withdrawn.

Jitney Service Attacked.

Counsel for the Pennsylvania Street Railway Association has asked the Public Service Commission to issue an order declaring that jitneys must secure certificates of public convenience from the commission, post tariffs and schedules as other common carriers are required to do and furnish $5,000 bond for damages in case of accident. The commission took no action, deferring consideration of the petition until a later day.

During the Convention Many People of Prominence Deliver Talks

REV. HEADLAND NOTED SPEAKER

Declares That Christian Religion Was Initiated into China Through Testament Given to Empress Dowager of China by Christian.

The twentieth annual convenzion of the Washington County Sabbath School association came to a close Friday evening, the principal feature of the session being a lecture given by Rev. I. T. Headland, of Alliance, O., his subject being, "America's Part in the Making of the Chinese Republic." For more than an hour he told of the part that Christian America had played in the development along Christian and intellectual lines of the Chinese empire.

The address was interesting and enlightening as Mr. and Mrs. Headland have spent considerable time in the empire and have learned actual history in the development of the country, all due as Mr. Headland asserted Friday evening to the Gospel.

He made the statement that it was all due to the introduction of a testament sent as a present to the Empress Dowager of China, which resulted finally in the development of the country and of the establishment of the Christian religion in part in the empire. This little book was presented to the empress dowager by a Christian woman, who little recked the far-reaching influences it was destined to have.

Rev. Mr. Headland spoke of the Boxer uprising and placed the blame all upon Germany which nation, he said, was the prime cause of the troubles in which a few missionaries lost their lives. It was not that the Chinese had anything against the persons who had no part in the troubles between the two nations, but simply a case in which the innocent had to suffer along with the guilty as has been the case in the present European war.

By the introduction of the Scriptures and of other literary productions later the use of opium has been almost totally eradicated. By the introduction of God's word the country has orderfully developed along industrial lines and by the same means China will ultimately be christianized.

At the close of Dr. Headland's address W. F. Alten, the retiring president of the association, made a few appropriate remarks, after which the convention came to a close.

Large War Order Issued.

Incident to the placing by the Pressed Steel Car company yesterday of an order for $75,000 tons of steel with the Carnegie Steel Company for fabrication and use in the construction of the 7,000 freight cars it will build for the Russian Government, it is noteworthy that the same concern also has a contract to furnish a foreign government with a large number of pontoons for military use, which will add materially to the enormous tonnage already in view for transportation by the railroads.

A GREAT BOOK NEEDED.

The world needs a great book, one that will solve the problems of affairs by treating all subjects fairly and without suppressing any of the facts, and put the whole in understandable language. It must be the work of a genius who can detect and define the hidden circumstances which determine the march of civilization and the destiny of nations, and find in the events of the past a key to the future, says the Pursuitawney Spirit. The man who undertook the task would have little sympathy, for the reason that he would, of necessity, be obliged to trample upon people's prejudices and the vested interests of numerous classes.

We have had several epoch-making books, such as Bacon's "Novum Organum," Adam Smith's "Wealth of Nations," Newton's "Optics," and "Principia," Humboldt's works, and Darwin's "Origin of Species." They have served their turn and added mightily to the progress of rational thought and right living, but they have become antiquated.

Lecky's "Map of Life" is the best attempt at producing a summary of the world's wisdom that has been made in a century, but it is not the luminous and comprehensive epitome that is needed as a textbook of progress.

A master mind and inexhaustible patience and energy, such as has been exhibited by Ernest Haeckel in his study and analysis of evolution, is needed for the task. The work should be as free as possible from technical terms and phrases, and should have sufficient imagination and warmth to appeal to the average intellect.

The man who wrote such a book would need to have abundant means and leisure for it would yield him little profit. Great books are not usually appreciated by the generation in which they are written, because they are necessarily a head of contemporaneous thought and the people must catch up before they can understand.

Perhaps some fond mother, somewhere in the world, is at this moment clasping the coming genius to her breast or some college may be aiding in his intellectual expansion. But thus far there is nothing to hint at his identity.

THE AMERICAN FLAG

Edmund Rostand, one of the best known literary men of France, has written a long poem on the American flag, in which he attributes high ideals of civilization and human brotherhood to the American people.

"There are many curious things about the lines," writes Harvey M. Watts, "strange figures of speech and verbal puns, but the extraordinary thing for all Americans is that for the first time in history a great European poet, in his own way, it is true and a very odd way, has written an apostrophe to the "Star Spangled Banner," as he puts it "Le celeste blazon du drapeau d' Amerique." More than that, his fantastic poem is really a tribute to American ideals and presents us to Europe in a way we have never been presented before—as a people to whom the world can turn for justice, as a people who have a true appreciation of the higher rights and wrongs of humanity.

It is fitting that this tribute so deserved should come, too, at a time when in Belgium, for instance, the emblem of the United States has become almost a sacred fetisch. Floating from the front of relief automobiles and above relief depots, it has been saluted by a grateful people there, and some of the incidents that have occurred in connection with the almost idolatrous devotion of the flag have been heartrending. Women have kissed it and have held their children up so that they might touch its sacred folds, others have knelt down and prayed before it and for what it represented; asylum and sanctuary and a mercy and charity unparalleled in the history of the world."

PICKED UP IN PASSING

Even an extremely aggressive enemy can be conquered by strategy. It is only a question of employing the strategem fitted to the case, says an exchange, in telling a story from England.

An open-air preacher understood this and his strategem fitted to a charm. He was addressing a crowd when a soldier who had been drinking came up and ridiculed the service. Finding it was useless to ignore the man, the preacher said:

"Ah! my friend, you're no soldier. No servant of the king would get drunk and interrupt a peaceful service."

The man said he was a soldier and asked the preacher to test him.

"Very well," was the reply. "I will. Now then: Attention!"

This the soldier did as well as his condition would allow.

"About—turn!"

This order was also obeyed, though with some trouble.

"Quick march!"

And off went the valiant soldier, marching down the road at a quick pace, while the preacher resumed his address.

One day, as Pat halted at the top of the river bank a man famous for his inquisitive mind stopped and asked:

"How long have you hauled water for the village my good man?"

"Tin years, sor."

"Ah! How many loads do you take in a day?"

"From tin to fifteen, sor."

"Ah yes! Now, I have a problem for you. How much water at this rate have you hauled in all?"

The driver of the watering cart jerked his thumb backward toward the river and replied:

"All the water yez don't see there now, sor."

Dear Luke—A preacher was telling his listeners the other day that if the saloons were a good thing they wouldn't have to close on election day. ADVERTISE

THE HANDS OF WOMANKIND

BY REV. ELLIOTT C. ARMSTRONG, D. D.
Pastor of the Central Presbyterian Church, Williamsport, Pa.

Foreword:—In that supreme prerogative of woman, the bearing of children, there is a wide field for protective and constructive legislation, and women should labor in it, not indirectly, but directly

For the toiling, wage-earning woman, the right of suffrage is but the payment of a just debt. It is an anomaly, vicious and unwarranted, that those who earn their daily bread should not directly have a voice in the making of the laws.

These and other ideals, hopes and convictions, held for years and now more firmly cherished than ever before, I have cast into the following poem which I have the honor and pleasure to contribute to the woman suffrage campaign now being waged in Pennsylvania.

I.

O childish hands of womankind,
So greedy now for play,
What will you seek, what will you find,
Through life's long dragging day?
Ah little hands, in many hands,
New treasures wait for you,
When mother hands and teaching hands
Shall cast the ballot too.

II.

O plighted hands of womankind
That fling on eager souls
The filmy links of love and bind
To base or worthy goals,
New duties crown the heights that sing
This message unto you:
The hands that wear the wedding ring
Should cast the ballot too.

III

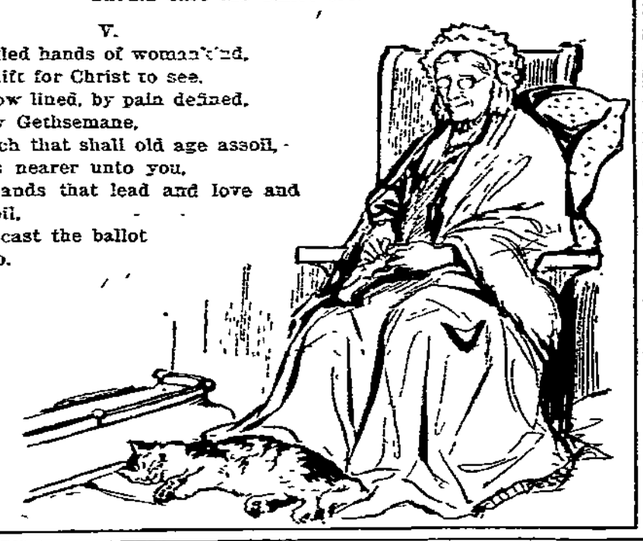
O mother hands of womankind,
In travail sorely wrung,
Twisted in pain, in prayer entwined,
In agony upflung,
The yearning heart of mother earth
Foresees a balm for you,
When hands that guard the gates of birth
Shall cast the ballot too.

IV.

O toiling hands of womankind
That shape a world to be
And from the everlasting mind
Build up a destiny,
The brooding justice overhead
Will pay this debt to you:
The hands that earn the daily bread
Should cast the ballot too.

V.

O wrinkled hands of womankind,
That lift for Christ to see,
By sorrow lined, by pain defined,
A new Gethsemane,
The touch that shall old age assoil,
Draws nearer unto you,
When hands that lead and love and toil,
Shall cast the ballot too.



ARIZONA RAISES AGE OF CONSENT

Crimes Against Girls Severely Punished in States Where Women Vote—Pennsylvania Is More Lenient

The age of consent in Arizona has been raised from sixteen to eighteen years since the women have had the ballot. Moreover, severe sentences have been provided for convictions for attacks upon young girls.

The age of consent has now been raised to eighteen years in ten of the eleven suffrage States. In the one State where it has not yet been raised, the women have not yet had a chance to elect candidates to the legislature.

In Pennsylvania, the age of consent is still sixteen years, "for a girl of good repute." This means that in this State there is no legal protection for the chastity of a girl of that age. Two years ago a bill was introduced into the Pennsylvania legislature raising the age of consent to eighteen years but the legislators refused to pass it.

As a result, although a girl cannot sell any property belonging to her in this State until she is twenty one, she has the sanction of the law to sell her soul when she is sixteen.

Discussing this point recently, Mrs. Frank Roessing, president of the Pennsylvania Woman Suffrage Association, said:

"Men are not permitted to vote until they are twenty-one. Why should women be considered competent to decide a question which will affect their whole lives when they are only sixteen?

"The girl is virtually helpless under the law. A conviction for criminal assault cannot be secured, even if the girl is under sixteen, if 'she is shown to be of ill repute.' Imagine such a child being rendered helpless by the misfortunes of her environment! And the law says, 'There is no crime where consent is obtained through or by fraud or deceit.' In all cases the law states that the defendant, the man, is to be given the benefit of the doubt.

"The law as to the age of consent is all against the girl. When we women of Pennsylvania get the vote one of the first things we will attempt to do with it will be to raise the age of consent. We will put girlhood, at least, on a level with property."

JUST A MINUTE, PLEASE!

ISN'T IT TRUE that in woman's business of housekeeping her success depends not only on herself but on the way her town is governed?

ISN'T IT TRUE that the control of food, air, light, water, health, education, morals and all living conditions is today in the hands of the officials of the town?

ISN'T IT TRUE then, that it is only common justice and common sense to let the woman in the home share in electing the men on whom the comfort of the home depends?

ORDER OF PATRONS OF HUSBANDRY PROUD OF COLORADO WOMEN VOTERS

John Morris, Master of Colorado State Grange, declares that the members of the Order of Patrons of Husbandry are "proud of the work that the women of our State are doing for humanity and the country at large. Since women received their franchise many good laws have been placed on our statutes, not only for the benefit of the women and children, but for higher education, better health conditions, for a higher standard of morality, against gambling and for prohibition. We are therefore heartily in favor of equal rights for women throughout the land."

MOTHER'S RISK AND SOLDIER'S RISK

Mrs. Farrel: "I've risked my life eight times in child bed."

General Mitchener: "My dear Mrs. Farrel, you surely would not compare a risk of that harmless domestic kind to the fearful risks of the battlefield?"

Mrs. Farrel: "I wouldn't compare risks run to bear living people into the world to the risks run to blow them out of the world. A mother's risk is a jooty, a soldier's nothing but divilment."—George Bernard Shaw.

LINE THROUGH NIGERIA

BRITISH TO CONSTRUCT RAILROAD IN WILD LAND.

Laborers Who Will Be Employed Are Cannibals, and White Men Will Be in Constant Danger of Their Lives.

A new railroad is being constructed by the British through the territory of Nigeria, in West Africa.

It will penetrate the regions known as "Jujuland," so-called because the inhabitants are long enthralled by a horrible [illegible] known as "Long Juju."

It will be built by cannibal natives who have shown themselves the most intelligent and industrious workmen. It will open up the last region of Africa where white men have not yet settled.

The new line into Nigeria will be 530 miles in length and will take four or five years to build. It will cost about fifteen million dollars. It is being built by the colonial government, of which the head is Sir Frederick Lugard. The country which is to be opened up is rich in palm oil and coal, which the British expect to yield a handsome revenue on the money invested in the road.

Fifty thousand natives have been hired for the work of building the road. They will work under the direction of British engineers and foremen. Doubtless some Americans will be associated with the enterprise.

These natives of Nigeria are noted for their obstinate cannibalism. Although the practice has been suppressed wherever possible by the British officials, the Nigerians in the depths of this wild country frequently find an opportunity to indulge in their peculiar taste. They attack an isolated village, destroy the houses and feast upon the inhabitants.

Sometimes they take their victims to a lonely part of the forest, keep them in a corral and fatten them up for a great banquet. Several times the white men have accidentally stumbled upon the hiding place of these destined victims of the cannibals.

The white engineers and workmen will have to guard themselves carefully, for the cannibals believe that white flesh is the greatest kind of meat. By eating it they imagine that they will acquire the cleverness and other qualities of the deceased person. Very few natives are daring enough now to attack white men, but there is no knowing what they might do in a moment of excitement. Half a dozen white men in a jungle 500 miles from help may be in a delicate situation.

Danger from lions and other wild animals will be very great. During the building of the Uganda railway hundreds of laborers were carried off by lions, and in recent months the beasts have walked into railroad cars and snatched off defenseless travelers.

In Nigeria lions are even more numerous than in Uganda. Their numbers depend largely on the amount of food they can find. Elands, antelopes and other game of various sizes are so abundant in Nigeria that the lions find inexhaustible food. Sometimes as many as 50 or 60 lions lurk in a patch of jungle a few acres in extent, near a drinking place where the food animals gather.

The new railroad will run along the river banks and will cross the favorite hunting places of the lions. There will be a tremendous disturbance among the animals.

Bruges as a Relic.

Bruges has been celebrated by poets and mystics as a relic of the past, but its medieval aspect is also due to present design. One does not penetrate it far without discovering as squalid, ill-cared for and poor a town as Belgium before the war could produce. But of its outward venerable appearance the authorities are not neglectful, and anyone building a house, who is willing to be guided as to style by the town architect, receives about a third of the cost of the frontage out of the municipal chest. One characteristic Bruges still retains from the days when it numbered 200,000 inhabitants of all countries. It has a large cosmopolitan element, including numerous English.

Self-Defense.

Men have been known to kill rabbits in self-defense, but to kill a hen for the same reason is uncommon. Yet a New England woman used this unique excuse when her neighbor trailed a missing hen.

"The hen came at me like a fury," she told the judge. "She seemed determined to scratch my eyes out. I fell back and she pursued me. Then we fought and fought and I finally killed her."

Alas, for the theory of defense! The hen was found with her feathers off, gently stewing in the aggrieved woman's kettle.

And the judge gravely shook his head as he rendered judgment against the kettle owner.

Leave Boots in Trench Mud.

A private of the Welsh Fusiliers, who is among the wounded who reached Cardiff recently, said:

"I have seen men in the trenches pulling at their boots for over twenty minutes in an effort to get out of the mud, and finally going without their boots, which are doubtless there now."

Another man said he himself had been in the trenches barefooted.—London Globe.

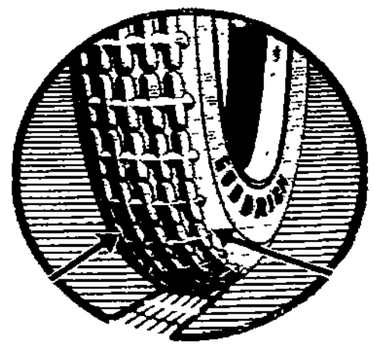
FORTY-FIVE years of Rubber working (in what is now the World's largest Rubber Factory) has taught us a few Kinks and Short-cuts that are not common to the Trade.

One of these now comes to the help of your Pocket-book.

Through the simple process of Thinking Hard (and being Candid with ourselves) we have found a Short-Cut to make the best Safety Tread ever put on a Tire cost us only about 5% more than it costs to make the Plain-Tread of similar quality.



Goodrich Safety Tread Tires cost you only 5% more than our own or any other plain tread tires.

Note the following table of comparative prices on non-skid tires. Columns headed "A," "B," "C" and "D" represent four highly advertised tires:

Size	Goodrich Safety Tread	OTHER MAKES "A"	"B"	"C"	"D"
30 x 3	$9.45	$10.55	$10.95	$16.35	$18.10

By testing out these Goodrich Safety-Tread Tires on a large number of Taxicabs (where they could be competitively observed and carefully checked up at the end of each day's use) and by comparing their actual performance with that of our own, and other Plain-Treads, of much higher price, we have had this fact forced upon us—

Viz:

—That there is SURPRISINGLY more Mileage, in Goodrich Safety Tread Tires, than in our own, or any other, make of Plain-Tread Tires.

So MUCH more Mileage, for only 5% more Cost looked so good to us that we decided to give Car Owners the benefit.
